Successful Mantra for Happy Living

It was a weekly meeting with a difference. Rtn. Ramkumar Singaram promised us to show how to live happily together and listed out six successful mantra.

On May 2, he spoke on the theme "How to keep your wife happy'. He divided the speech into six topics: Avoid arguments, Learning to listen, Discover each other's emotional needs, How to motivate the opposite sex, Realize how your partner keeps score and Key to healthy relationship.

Rtn. Singaram speech was based on a book written by an American author John Grey "Men are from Mars and Women are from Venus", that explored the intrinsic differences between men and women.

Marriage is the ultimate bond between two partners. Generally, men and women within a relationship believe themselves to be equal. The dynamic does vary between couples, but the best kinds of relationships are those that have a balanced power dynamic. Still relationships are not easy to maintain. They require a remarkable amount of work and commitment to keep your love for one another strong. With a little effort, understanding, and a bit of patience, healthy couples know how to take the ups and down; how to weather the storm, he said According to him, Men and women should be considered as existing in two different planets. The most common relationship problems between them are a result of the fundamental psychological differences between the sexes. In today's society men and women are expected to act as equals. Women are expected to show strong, confident characteristics in order to maintain this appearance of equality.

In conclusion, he said women can get the best result from her partner when he is given the Space, Encouragement & Appreciation.

On the other hand, men should remember that women are not intent on picking a fight and they best respond when they are Listened, Cared & Respected.
